

National Republican.

W. J. MURTAUGH, Editor and Proprietor

THE REPUBLICAN has a larger circulation than any other Morning Paper in the District of Columbia.*READING MATTER ON EVERY PAGE.*PUBLISHED EVERY MORNING
(Sunday excepted)BY W. J. MURTAUGH,
Northern corner of Twelfth and D Streets.

(From Post Office avers to us) and is furnished to subscribers by carriers at 10 cents per month.

Mail subscribers, $10 per year; $1.00 for six months, and $1.00 for three months, invariably in advance.

BATES OF ADVERTISING.

Twenty-five cents for each advertisement under the heading of "Bates," "Personal," "Wanted," and "Found," and "Personal," twelve and a half cents per line.

THE WEEKLY REPUBLICAN is published every Saturday morning, and is furnished to subscribers at the following rates: One copy one year, $2.00; $1.00 single copies, in wrappers 20 cents.

All remittances, whether on business or personal, should be addressed to Wm. J. MURTAUGH, Proprietor NATIONAL REPUBLICAN, Washington, D. C.

Persons leaving the city during the trilling season can have the Republican mailed to their address for any length of time they may designate, at 60 cents per month, payable in advance, by ordering the same at the office.*The "Black Man's Party" exposure in the Republicans yesterday created a good deal more of a sensation than the Herald's Cession.*The journal founded by Horace Greeley now runs in the interest of Jay Gould. The young men specially trained have entirely fallen from grace.*A DEMOCRATIC ORGAN rejoices that the Liberal Republicans are tending toward that organization. The Republican party is equally gratified at the fact.The Cincinnati Gazette worries itself with the escomunard, #1 is the condition of the labor declining? Let it be known that alone. He will take care of himself.THE REPUBLICAN IN CALIFORNIA has a magnificent prospect before it this fall. One of the substantial fruits of victory will be the election of a Republican to succeed the corrupt Cassidy in the Senate.Mr. ROBERT HATTON takes a religious view of the Black Man's Party. He says that under the rules of his church he could not be a member of any such organization. Mr. Hatton is a truly good man and an exemplary Christian.AN OMAHA (NEB.) PAPER says that Prof. Henry "would give more for the hide of a snake than for the life of a man." There are some snakes whose hides are infinitely more valuable than the hides of a good many men whom we know.THE NEW YORK NATION is of the opinion that all the excitement concerning the third will pass away in a month or two and leave the country very much as it was before. The Nation evidently has great faith in the people or very little in the New York Herald.EX-SHAWATOR M. T. HUNTER, who was once considered something famous as a statesman and politician, but who since the late unpleasantness was ended, has been realizing down in Esmer, ranking as one politically deceased, now looks up as the figure-head of the F. F. V. Democracy. He has been appointed by the Democratic Conservative Committee as chief State canvasser-at-large, and opened his plan of campaign in an elaborate and carefully prepared speech Friday at the Michael Hotel.HUNTER, an old soldier, Henry Clay Whig, but was shabby enough to be elected Speaker of a House of Representatives of doubtful complexion about thirty years ago, and shortly after became a good-enough Democrat to enter the United States Senate and attain to the leadership of that party in that body as chairman of the Committee on Finance, with quite a number in the service, as the principal tributary of the Southern section as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.Such are some of the antecedents of the man who is put forward by the Virginia Democratic Conservatives as their standard-bearer in the coming fight. He is a man of the past age as well as generation. He is one of those who think that the world ceased to move when he left politics, and has no idea that it can again advance a step in any proper direction. He is an old Jeff Davis and has been educated in the ways of the Southern section, and he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.*THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.Such are some of the antecedents of the man who is put forward by the Virginia Democratic Conservatives as their standard-bearer in the coming fight. He is a man of the past age as well as generation. He is one of those who think that the world ceased to move when he left politics, and has no idea that it can again advance a step in any proper direction. He is an old Jeff Davis and has been educated in the ways of the Southern section, and he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.*THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis. He was one of the commissioners from Jeff. Davis to confer with Mr. Seward and President Lincoln, at Fortress Monroe, as to terms of peace, in February, 1865—Meers, Alexander H. Stephens and Judge John A. Campbell being the other two—and was the only one that did not stick to his post and remained a cold-blooded traitor to the war-stricken, starving people of McDonough, in company with his master, Jeff. Davis, in his return and attempt to fire the Southern hearts anew for a continuance of a war in behalf of a cause that he knew was hopeless and lost. He was imprisoned a few months after the war was ended, but so little had he upon the popular heart that no demonstrations were made in Virginia in favor of his release, which was, however, soon effected through the kindly feelings of Mr. Seward, then Secretary of State, and who served him faithfully in the service.THE BLACK MAN'S PARTY. The editor of the New York Standard, in his article on the new political party, quotes from the "Equal Rights League" created quite a breeze in certain political circles. The gentlemen whose tricks and plots were exposed were fierce in their denunciation of the REPUBLICAN, declaring that the article in question was untrue, and that we should certainly go to destruction for what they were pleased to term our "opposition to the interests of the black man." Some demagogues who indulged in the article, and who are now in the service of the Southern section, as he has now in the election of Kemper to the gubernatorial chair this fall, and of himself to his old seat in the Senate, as the successor of Hon. John F. Lewis.